by focusing on the woman rather than the author george tucker paints a new and welcome picture of jane austen not the spinster recluse of previous biographies but a vibrant well traveled woman who was very much a part of the world in which she lived contains cases reported in the issues of the estate gazette inspired by actual events fifteen year old jane austen dreams of three things doing something useful writing something worthy and falling madly in love when she visits her brother in kent to celebrate his engagement she meets wealthy devilishly handsome edward taylor a fascinating young man who is truly worthy of her affections jane knows a match between her and edward is unlikely but every moment she spends with him makes her heart race and he seems to return her interest much to her displeasure however there is another seeking his attention unsure of her budding relationship jane seeks distraction by attempting to correct the pairings of three other prospective couples but when her matchmaking aspirations do not all turn out as anticipated jane discovers the danger of relying on first impressions the human heart cannot be easily deciphered nor can it be directed or managed and if others must be left to their own devices in matters of love and matrimony can jane even hope to satisfy her own heart
