like all crime and punishment military detention in the Australian Army has a long and fraught history accommodating the King's Hard Bargain tells the gritty story of military detention and punishment dating from colonial times with a focus on the system rather than the individual soldier World War I was Australia's first experience of a mass army and the detention experience was complex encompassing short and long term detention from punishment in the field to incarceration in British and Australian military detention facilities the World War II experience was similarly complex with detention facilities in England Palestine and Malaya mainland Australia and New Guinea eventually the management of army detention would become the purview of an independent specialist service with the end of the war the Army reconsidered detention and based on lessons learned established a single corrective establishment its emphasis on rehabilitation as accommodating the King's Hard Bargain graphically illustrates the road from colonial experience to today's tri-service corrective establishment was long and rocky Armies are powerful instruments but also fragile entities their capability resting on discipline it is in pursuit of this war-winning intangible that detention facilities are considered necessary a necessity that continues in the modern army justice in arms brings to life a fascinating and important element of australia s legal history the role of army legal officers in australia and in expeditionary operations from the boer war until 2000 this is a comprehensive and absorbing history which describes the dynamic interaction of institutional and political imperatives and the personalities who managed this interaction over the decades it is populated by colourful characters and legal luminaries and demonstrates that military justice is rightly concerned with discipline and cohesiveness reflecting broader societal norms it is also concerned with the rule of law and respect for the rights liberties and fair treatment of those who serve in the armed forces justice in arms describes the extraordinary contribution of army legal officers to both the profession of arms and the development of the law charting the evolving personal and structural relationships between army legal officers and command dictated by the changing legal needs of the army and the broader australian defence force today army legal officers apply adapt and shape the law to meet evolving needs in peacetime and during armed conflict and peace operations ensuring the legitimacy of military action and the maintenance of domestic and international support for national objectives in vietnam in 1969 keith payne was leading a company of indigenous montagnard soldiers when they were overrun by a large force of north vietnam regulars when the company was withdrawn many wounded were left behind and payne returned to the battlefield four times to rescue forty stragglers for this act of extreme bravery he was awarded the victoria cross but becoming the last australian soldier to win this highest military decoration came at a price returning to civilian life he struggled for ten years in a haze of alcohol and prescription drugs a nightmare for him his wife and five sons he was eventually diagnosed as suffering from post traumatic stress and for the past twenty years he has been a strong advocate for the rights of returned soldiers and their families in 2007 he sold all of his twenty medals including the victoria cross for an undisclosed sum this is not only the story of a brave and resilient australian soldier but also a reflection on the high cost and futility of war the story of the war in korea and of the part played by the reme from 1950 to 1953 as told by various individuals of that corps makes fascinating reading the support and devotion to their colleagues is most apparent but typical of the british soldier these experiences are balanced with a sense of sympathy for the unfortunate korean civilian population caught up in the conflict and it wouldn t be a true story of the british soldier without its sprinkling of squaddie humour john dutton has provided an excellent compilation of personal accounts in this comprehensive story of the royal electrical and mechanical engineers at war where the positioning of light aid detachments and field workshops was just as important to senior commanders in their tactical planning as was the medical back up of a regimental aid post or a field ambulance
