Australia is known for its spectacular and diverse natural environment, from sweeping landscapes to unique flora and fauna. It is a place that invokes wonder and demands protection in equal measure. Its ecology matters as do the people who have dedicated their careers to understanding it. Ecologists but what do ecologists do? How do they end up studying strange and obscure species? What is it like to work in remote and unusual environments? What happens when disaster strikes and what are their hopes and concerns for the future in ecology matters? Australia's preeminent ecologists explain why nature truly matters across 30 enlightening essays. Learn about crayfish and climate change, seed banks and seagrass restoration, floods and fire ecology, ants and Antarctic mosses, whales, waterways and wallabies, and frogs. Feral cats and fungi, featuring interviews with students, indigenous rangers, restoration ecologists and leaders in the field. This collection of conversations spans the breadth and diversity of Australian ecology, accompanied by spectacular images from around Australia many captured by ecologists in the course of their work. Ecology matters showcases a unique perspective of Australian nature.

This 2001 book focuses on the problem of justice for indigenous peoples and the ways in which this poses key questions for political theory. The nature of sovereignty, the grounds of national identity and the limits of democratic theory. It includes chapters by leading political theorists and indigenous scholars from Australia, Aotearoa New Zealand, Canada and the United States. One of the strengths of this book is the manner in which it shows how the different historical circumstances of colonization in these countries nevertheless raise common problems and questions for political theory. It examines ways in which political theory has contributed to the past subjugation and continuing disadvantage faced by indigenous peoples while also seeking to identify resources in contemporary political thought that can assist the decolonisation of relations between indigenous and non-indigenous peoples.
