the term revolutionary is used liberally in histories of indian anticolonialism but scarcely defined implicitly understood it functions as a signpost or a badge generously conferred in hagiographies loosely invoked in historiography and strategically deployed in contemporary political contests it is timely then to ask the question who counts as a revolutionary in south asia how can we read the revolutionary in indian political formations and what does it really mean to be revolutionary in turbulent late colonial times this volume takes a biographical approach to the question by examining the life stories of a series of activists some well known who all defined themselves in explicitly revolutionary terms in the early twentieth century shyamaji krishnavarma v d savarkar m k gandhi bhagat singh jawaharlal nehru j p narayan and hansraj vohra the authors interrogate the subversive lives of these figures tracing their polyglot influences and transnational impacts to map out the discursive travels of the revolutionary in indian historical and literary worlds from the early 1900s and to indicate its reverberations in the politics of the present this book was published as a special issue of postcolonial studies
