this is the fourth volume of a five book series which offers a forward looking broad based course in human geography the building blocks of a geographical imagination are presented through some of the principal forces that are shaping the world as it approaches the twenty first century each book develops different aspects of the geographical imagination using a mixture of text and readings through which the authors teach what it is to think geographically the issues that are explored are at the forefront of global and local relations this volume examines the challenges posed by globalization to the meanings we currently give to place and to culture and questions the nature of the relationship between them issues of identity cultural personal and of place and the contest over the meanings of places and cultures are set in the context of the changing geography of social power beginning with international migration the book establishes a centuries old context of movement settlement and hybridity within which current debates must be set it raises issues of the rights of movement of both capital and of people of the ways in which place and culture are imagined and given meaning and of the power struggles over the definitions of place and culture it examines the importance and the nature of the identities we confer on and draw from place and the importance of space and place in the constitution of insiders and outsiders the book as a whole is an argument for rethinking these issues and recognising their importance to our geographical imagination spatial and cultural analysis have recently found much common ground focusing in particular on the nature of the city place culture representation brings together new and established voices involved in the reshaping of cultural geography the authors argue that as we write our geographies we are not just representing some reality we are creating meaning writing becomes as much about the author as it is about purported geographical reality the issue becomes not scientific truth as the end but the interpretation of cultural constructions as the means discussing authorial power discourses of the other texts and textuality landscape metaphor the sites of power knowledge relations and notions of community and the sense of place the authors explore the ways in which a more fluid and sensitive geographer's art can help us make sense of ourselves and the landscapes and places we inhabit and think about margaret archer's culture and agency was first published in 1988 and proved a seminal contribution to social theory and the case for the role of culture in sociological thought described in sociological review as a timely and sophisticated treatment the book showed that the problems of culture and agency on the one hand and structure and agency on the other could be solved using the same analytical framework in this revised edition of culture and agency margaret archer contextualises her argument in 1990s cultural sociology and links it explicitly to her latest book realist social theory the morphogenetic approach cambridge university press 1995 annotation christou explores the phenomenon of return migration in greece through the settlement and identification processes of second generation greek american returning migrants she examines the meanings attached to the experience of return migration the concepts of home and belonging figure prominently in the return migratory project which entails relocation and displacement as well as adjustment and alienation of bodies and selves furthermore christou considers the multiple interactions social cultural political between the place of origin and the place of destination network ties historical and global forces in the shaping of return migrant behaviour and expressions of identity the human geography of return migration extends beyond geographic movement into a diasporic journey involving re constructions of homeness and belongingness in the ancestral homeland this title can be previewed in google books books.google.com books vid isbn9789053568781 this title is available in the oapen library oapen.org
