becomes a connecting thread throughout the nine articles to pinpoint the uniqueness of what gilson calls christian philosophy all the articles give an insight into the great synthetic visions articulated by the better known works of gilson like the spirit of medieval philosophy the middle ages and ancient naturalism contrasts renaissance humanists and reformers with the medievals on the defining issue of their attitude toward nature to understand who actually stands closer to the greeks in his examination of the latin averroist boethius of dacia s book on the eternity of the world gilson finds that boethius never expresses the view attributed to latin averroism that there are contradictory truths in religion and philosophy the closing article studies the profound influence of the great muslim thinker avicenna on latin europe drawing a parallel between avicenna s work and that of the great christian medievals like thomas aquinas and duns scotus
