this volume offers a selection of issues currently encountered by scholars working within the broadly understood discipline of translation studies the contributions here discuss topical and recurrent issues which have long been at the forefront of this discipline such as phraseology corpora quality of interpreting translator training censorship style proper names and receptor oriented translation in addition they also deal with relatively recent developments such as humour and multimodality in audiovisual translation and those problems rarely conclusively addressed in the context of translation namely impoliteness and paratexts bringing together authors from eight countries namely the uk spain germany austria poland italy the usa and new zealand the volume offers research into translation from a variety of methodological solutions and conducted across eight languages english spanish catalan polish german italian chinese and greek despite the diversity of themes presented the main research areas emerging from all the contributions fall into four thematic groups 1 lexicological issues and corpora in translation studies 2 quality and translator training 3 audiovisual translation and 4 literary translation the multicultural world of today is often said to be marked by a certain kind of exoticization a fetishizing process as graham huggan has called it which separates a first world from a third world the occident from the orient the essays collected here re assess this tendency not least by focusing on the kinds of intellectual tourism and dilettantism to which it has given rise the wider context of these analyses is a postcolonial scenario where literatures and languages can move from the exotic to the comparatively familiar space of contemporary writings where an exotic mythos can live on into the familiar present and where certain perceptions and representations of peoples of literatures and of languages have turned exoticization and familiarization into global modes of mass cultural consumption especially by exploring the liminalities between different cultures this collection manages to trace both the history and the politics of exoticist representation and in so doing to make a significant critical intervention eliza carthy is the daughter of martin carthy and norma waterson the clan has often been rightly described as folk s royal family martin was in steeleye span albion dance band and the watersons as well as holding down a successful solo career norma was a member of the watersons folk group perhaps it was inevitable that eliza would follow the family trade and become a folk musician she is no pale imitator though and can play just about any stringed instrument like a virtuoso though amazingly she underrates herself this self doubt seems at odds with the public persona of a brassy northern lass who has sometimes been described as difficult though not in our experience her albums are exceptional slices of traditional and new folk but the stage is her natural home entralling audiences with a blend of folk jazz rock and music hall 2011 saw her win two out of the three categories she was nominated for in the radio 2 british folk awards to swell an already bulging trophy cabinet at 35 years of age it seems apt to chronicle the first half of an eventful life in addition to extensive interviews with eliza herself the book contains interviews with her parents and other family members and also many of the people eliza has worked with billy bragg comedian stewart lee richard thompson vandyke parkes and many more were fulsome in their praise of eliza when interviewed she has toured america with joan baez eliza has an extensive collection of photographs that people have taken of her and she has been exceptionally generous in letting us use them
