a collection of research by leading international scholars on beckett and phenomenology both comparing and contrasting his work with key figures in phenomenology and analysing phenomenological themes and their dramatization in beckett s work this book presents a comprehensive and highly original argument about the fundamental literary value and the underlying psychological meaning of beckett s work ever since the first appearance of proust in 1931 samuel beckett has responded extremely ambivalently both praising and belittling his subject captivated by his occasionally contagious enthusiasm for it beckett s own critics have praised proust as the ideal guide to both its subject and its author creating the myth that their concerns are somehow one and the same nicholas zurbrugg s work itself virtually a trilogy of critical studies offers a timely antidote to this confusion he begins by reassessing the proustian vision before considering beckett's proust when he examines the evolution of this essay with particular reference to beckett's own annotated copies of the work finally he reassesses beckett's fictional vision arguing that its peculiarly anti-proustian character may be traced from his first unpublished novel Dream of Fair to Middling Women to Company and his most recent writing of the 1980s fitch sets out to determine the relationships between the french and english versions of a number of samuel beckett's novels and shorter prose works exploring both their genesis through various manuscript drafts and their reception by the reader annotation copyrighted by book news inc portland or

this book discusses Molloy, Malone Dies and The Unnamable the novels that make up samuel beckett's well known trilogy to analyze the techniques employed and trace the traditions from which they have emanated for the book is made up of an introduction and six chapters the first chapter discusses Molloy viewing its protagonist as a writer who is alienated but as such serves as a modern day everyman the second chapter discusses Malone Dies with particular emphasis on its mode of narration and considers phenomenology to be the key to the narrative consciousness of the novel the third chapter discusses The Unnamable with the aim of examining its constituent elements and the particular amalgam of fact and fiction the fourth chapter discusses the continental confessional aspect of the trilogy examining such earlier continental examples as Goethe's The Sorrows of Young Werther and Dostoevsky's Notes from the Underground the fifth chapter discusses the continental philosophical novel aspect of the trilogy and situates the three novels within the framework of the post world war ii french philosophical novel tradition this is an anthology of beckett criticism from the earliest reviews to the advanced work that was being done at the time of his death and is designed to give scholars and students of beckett's work access to material that they would otherwise have difficulty finding seminar paper from the year 2001 in the subject english language and literature studies literature grade 1-7 university of regensburg institut für anglistik und amerikanistik course proseminar from modernism to postmodernism 10 entries in the bibliography language english abstract this piece of work deals with the question whether beckett's Endgame is a continuation of Waiting for Godot in order to answer it both plays will be compared to work out similarities as well as differences Godot will function as a basis and startingpoint for interpretation that will then turn towards Endgame for comparison to come to a conclusion main features of the drama such as plot setting characters action language and time will be involved in this procedure of analysis to a certain extent this approach towards the two plays will also be related to the historical context of postmodernism and the philosophical background of existentialism as well as to characteristics of the theatre of the absurd or the expressionist theatre
