three years before his death michel foucault delivered a series of lectures at the catholic university of louvain that until recently remained almost unknown these lectures which focus on the role of avowal or confession in the determination of truth and justice provide the missing link between foucault's early work on madness delinquency and sexuality and his later explorations of subjectivity in greek and roman antiquity ranging broadly from homer to the twentieth century foucault traces the early use of truth telling in ancient greece and follows it through to practices of self examination in monastic times by the nineteenth century the avowal of wrongdoing was no longer sufficient to satisfy the call for justice there remained the question of who the criminal was and what formative factors contributed to his wrong doing the call for psychiatric expertise marked the birth of the discipline of psychiatry in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries as well as its widespread recognition as the foundation of criminology and modern criminal justice published here for the first time the 1981 lectures have been superbly translated by stephen w sawyer and expertly edited and extensively annotated by fabienne brion and bernard e harcourt they are accompanied by two contemporaneous interviews with foucault in which he elaborates on a number of the key themes an essential companion to discipline and punish wrong doing truth telling will take its place as one of the most significant works of foucault to appear in decades and will be necessary reading for all those interested in his thought
