american philanthropy at home and abroad explores the different ways in which charities voluntary associations religious organisations philanthropic foundations and other non state actors have engaged with traditions of giving using examples from the late eighteenth century to the cold war the collection addresses a number of major themes in the history of philanthropy in the united states these examples include the role of religion the significance of cultural networks and the interplay between civil diplomacy and international development as well as individual case studies that challenge the very notion of philanthropy as a social good led by ben offiler and rachel williams the authors demonstrate the benefits of embracing a broad definition of philanthropy examining how american concepts including benevolence and charity have been used and interpreted by different groups and individuals in an effort to shape and at least nominally to improve people s lives both within and beyond the united states the key role that farming plays in the economy of indiana today owes much to the work of john harrison skinner 1874 1942 skinner was a pioneering educator and administrator who transformed the study of agriculture at purdue university during the first decades of the twentieth century from humble origins occupying one building and 150 acres at the start of his career the agriculture program grew to spread over ten buildings and 1 000 acres by the end of his tenure as its first dean a focused single minded man skinner understood from his own background as a grain and stock farmer that growers could no longer rely on traditional methods in adapting to a rapidly changing technological and economic environment in which tractors were replacing horses and new crops such as alfalfa and soy were transforming the arable landscape farmers needed education and only by hiring the best and brightest faculty could purdue give them the competitive edge that they needed while he excelled as a manager and advocate for indiana agriculture skinner never lost touch with his own farming roots taking especial interest in animal husbandry during the course of his career as dean 1907 1939 the number of livestock on purdue farms increased fourfold and skinner showed his knowledge of breeding by winning many times at the international livestock exposition today the scale of purdue s college of agriculture has increased to offer almost fifty programs to hundreds of students from all over the globe however at its base the agricultural program in place today remains largely as john harrison skinner built it responsive to indiana but with its focus always on scientific innovation in the larger world
