in an evaluation of the scriptures as the word of god inspiration is an essential element the long protestant experience with this issue is both fruitful and painful for many have drawn false conclusions from the justified belief in inspiration paul achtemeier is a first rate scholar who combines scientific investigation with faith and his sensitivity and honesty make this a most useful book for all interested in the bible a better practical book on the subject would be hard to find raymond e brown former auburn distinguished professor emeritus union theological seminary new york if achtemeier s book reaches that large body of christians looking for a nonfundamentalistic doctrine of scripture it could play a major role in creating a framework for them he comes across as possessing a deep love and respect for the bible and for the lord and eager for people to place their minds and lives beneath its authority he offers us in the end the doctrine of a covenantal scripture given by god to his people for their edification and renewal a dynamic document that can perform this service two thousand years after its completion confronting us with god s word for our situation through the power of the spirit i am highly grateful for this book and recommend it highly to others clark h pinnock former professor emeritus of systematic theology mcmaster divinity college in scripture and the authority of god tom wright argues that god is the ultimate source of all authority and that god s authority is not primarily about providing the right answers to disputed questions but about god s sovereign saving purposes being declared and accomplished through jesus and the spirit this revised and expanded edition includes two helpful case studies looking at what it means to keep sabbath and at how christians can defend marital monogamy these studies not only offer bold biblical insights but also demonstrate the indispensable role of scripture as the primary resource for teaching and guidance in the christian life john r w stott explains why the old and new testaments still form the authoritative basis for christian faith and practice in this volume thirty seven first rate evangelical scholars present a thorough study of biblical authority and a full range of issues connected to it recognizing that scripture and its authority are now being both challenged and defended with renewed vigor editor d a carson assigned the topics that these select scholars address in the book after an introduction by carson to the many facets of the current discussion the contributors present robust essays on relevant historical biblical theological philosophical epistemological and comparative religions topics to conclude carson answers a number of frequently asked questions about the nature of scripture cross referencing these faqs to the preceding chapters this comprehensive volume by a team of recognized experts will be the go to reference on the nature and authority of the bible for years to come amazon scholar and pastor matthew barrett retraces the historical and biblical roots of the doctrine that scripture alone is the final and decisive authority for god s people god s word alone is a decisive defense of the bible as the inspired and inerrant word of god revitalizing one of the five great declarations of the reformation sola scriptura barrett analyzes what the idea of sola scriptura is and what it entails clarifying why the doctrine is truth and why it s so essential to christianity surveys the development of this theme in the reformation and traces the crisis that followed resulting in a shift away from the authority of scripture shows that we need to recover a robust doctrine of scripture s authority in the face of today s challenges and why a solid doctrinal foundation built on god s word is the best hope for the future of the church this book is an exploration of the past in order to better understand our present and the importance of reviving this indispensable doctrine for the christian faith and church today the five solas historians and theologians have long recognized that at the heart of the sixteenth century protestant reformation were five declarations often referred to as the solas these five statements summarize much of what the reformation was about and they distinguish protestantism from other expressions of the christian faith that they place ultimate and final authority in the scriptures acknowledge the work of christ alone as sufficient for redemption recognize that salvation is by grace alone through faith alone and seek to do all things for god s glory the five solas series is more than a simple rehashing of these statements but instead expounds upon the biblical reasoning behind them leading to a more profound theological vision of our lives and callings as christians and churches this book approaches the question of the authority of scripture from a different angle it is after all god himself who possesses all authority and god s authority is not primarily about giving right answers to disputed questions but about his sovereign saving purposes being accomplished through jesus christ and the holy spirit what might it mean for the bible to be a vessel or channel of that powerful authority asking the question this way round opens up new angles on many other issues the relation of scripture tradition and reason the place of experience the many sided problems of the use and abuse of the bible in relation to personal and public life book jacket this engrossing book demonstrates that the cradle james barr of biblical criticism really lay in the english speaking world and that subsequent problems actually began in england in the period between the reformation and the enlightenment during this time attempts were still being made on a regular basis to reconcile the content of the bible with the questioning of it which was evolving as the result of new scientific discoveries and the development of new moral criteria in this interdisciplinary study professor reventlow leads the reader into the total context of the life and thought in which new ideas about the bible came to birth beginning with the insights of early humanism and the spiritualist movements of the reformation and moving through the puritans to a climax with the deists reventlow traces the fascinating and complex history of biblical criticism always emphasizing the close connection between theology philosophical systems and church politics he illuminates the significance of the intellectual and constitutional development in england for the modern understanding of the bible and conversely he highlights the role of the bible in that development the importance of this book is threefold it is historical it gives us insight into the way biblical understanding is achieved and it helps us understand how we ourselves work and think james barr if we are to answer the theological questions of our time it is reventlow s contention that the reply must pioneer its way out of its past for only a careful survey of the way we have come so far can clarify existing intrinsic presuppositions and help us to overcome them by making us aware of them from back cover textual and higher criticism have decimated the faith of many and made divinity schools message less this is an analysis of questions asked by textual and higher criticism with the purpose of vindicating the viewpoint of an infallible bible is the bible infallible as some churches claim is it a historical document or a piece of literature as scholars suggest this helpful new book offers a brief introduction to the question of biblical authority using essays by sixteen scholars who use the bible as the word of god in their own religious tradition and scholarship after william brown introduces the basic issues of biblical authority each scholar presents a different but sympathetic view from his or her own perspective included are traditional reformed lutheran wesleyan catholic jewish and orthodox views recent conservative and evangelical positions and critical african american asian american hispanic feminist and womanist

this book introduces a new approach to the comparative study of sacred texts here the christian bible the islamic koran the hindu veda and the buddhist tipiaka the author demonstrates that in spite of their great differences these works show a fundamental analogy considered as canonical within their own religious context each text possesses absolute authority in comparison with other authoritative texts from their respective religious traditions this fundamental analogy allows one to describe the growth and history of these canons step by step as a process that takes place in analogous phases that are clearly distinguishable the author follows a strictly phenomenological method he tries to understand the development of these canons in terms of a potential that lies within the phenomena themselves i e the texts while refraining in any way from assessing their claim to absolute authority in part i the author describes the development from the revelation of the texts to a climax with respect to reflection on the canons this climax has been reached in all four cases part ii investigates the crisis that these canons are currently undergoing as a consequence of the modern intellectual climate can we expect that this crisis will be overcome by the canons and if so will they be in a position of mutual exclusion or will they form a sort of unity such as for example the old and new testament in the christian bible finally the author traces what the religions themselves have postulated about the future of their respective canons the result is surprising the current crisis is only faint reflection of what according to age old predictions awaits the canons in the future

his reflections on some of the ways we might answer these questions in the church today became the twelve short chapters of this book here scripture scholar and anglican priest christopher bryan looks at the nature of the bible s authority and inspiration and how the bible can inform our decision making today he explores common questions about scripture such as what do we mean when we say that the scriptures are revelatory that they are inspired that they are the word of god how do we define the bible s authority for the past and the future what does a church that takes the bible s authority seriously actually look like how does it read study and pray with the bible and god spoke offers essential guidelines for everyone who wonders about the authority of the bible and who wants to read it with attentiveness and understanding the theological impact of accepting the absolute authority of biblical scripture is enormous especially for women who attend and serve churches but until now few books have been willing to address this issue head on sarah lancaster looks at the way women in the church have dealt with the question of scriptural authority and how they can address it in the future some women she says accept the authority of the bible without question and stay in church without change of attitude or action others deny that the bible has any authority completely leaving christianity in the belief that the bible and christian tradition are irredeemably patriarchal still others recognize that while scripture is largely patriarchal it is authoritative for their life of faith the bible possesses a narrative coherence its story resonating in our own lives for women the bible can continue to ring true to their experience letting them acknowledge scripture s authority in spite of its problems the bible is not about patriarchy it is about how god is present to us and interacts with us in order to bring us to fullness of life lancaster says that women can criticize those things in scripture that help maintain a patriarchal world without invalidating scripture's authority scripture she argues informs forms and transforms with its combination of narrative and feminist theology women and the authority of scripture brings a powerful new perspective to the doctrine of biblical authority in the contemporary world sarah heaner lancaster is associate professor of theology methodist theological school in delaware ohio she is an ordained elder in the north texas conference of the united methodist church she lives in westerville ohio
