examines the campaign fought by british commonwealth and other security forces in malaysia against communist insurgents following world war ii the text describes the development of anti guerilla tactics adopted during the fighting examining film literature and art produced during and after the malayan emergency the guerrilla war fought between the malayan national liberation army and the military forces of the british commonwealth this collection demonstrates how art functions as a record of cultural memory that both reinforces and challenges official histories beyond that it also brings new understandings of the malayan emergency itself and malaysia s subsequent development as a postcolonial nation the first section of the book focuses on films and writings produced during the period of the emergency to capture the socio political circumstances of the time and understand its effect on the people the second section goes on to explore representations of the emergency generated after the event highlighting how it was reimagined or reevaluated by later artists and what ideological ends they served offering a comparative methodological approach it investigates works that account for a range of perspectives including british communist and malayan malaysian bringing together the personal and political within individual and collective histories this collection offers a new understanding of how the emergency contributed to the formation of postcolonial malaysia and demonstrates the central role that film literature and art play in the creation of cultural memory from 1948 through the 1950s british and commonwealth forces fought a ruthless communist insurgency on the malay peninsula thanks to sound generalship and the dedication and resilience of the officers and men the security forces eventually broke the terrorists resolve 1st battalion the suffolk regiment was just one of many british units involved in this successful campaign known as the malayan emergency their tour between 1949 and 1953 coincided with the most crucial years when the future of the country and arguably the south east asia region lay in the balance as this book describes in words and superb contemporary images how the battalion the majority of whom were national servicemen operated under the most demanding jungle and climatic conditions earning itself an enviable reputation the battalion s experiences are well recorded here and typify those of tens of thousand servicemen whose efforts secured a unique victory the first in depth and multi perspective study of anti colonial resistance and counterinsurgency in the malayan emergency and its impact on malaysia based on previously classified materials this study traces the political policies and operational practices that enabled the british to defeat the communist insurgency in malaya between 1948 and 1960 the author points to the key roles played by the briggs plan and general sir gerald templer this study of the malayan emergency examines not only the military but also the administrative economic political and social aspects of the guerrilla war taking a cue from the hearts and minds approach to counter guerrilla warfare which was popularized by its success in the emergency but which has not been well understood the study details the evolution of the policies of the malayan government and the malayan communist party and plots the fluctuating fortunes of each side as the sympathies allegiances and actions of the people were influenced by the changing circumstances when the world held its breath it is 25 years since the end of the cold war now a generation old it began over 75 years ago in 1944long before the last shots of the second world war had echoed across the wastelands of eastern europewith the brutal greek civil war the battle lines are no longer drawn but they linger on unwittingly or not in conflict zones such as iraq somalia and ukraine in an era of mass produced ak 47s and icbms one such flashpoint was malaya by the time of the 1942 japanese occupation of the malay peninsula and singapore the malayan communist party mcp had already been fomenting merdeka independence from britain the japanese conquerors however were also the loathsome enemies of the mcps ideological brothers in china an alliance of convenience with the british was the outcome britain armed and trained the mcps military wing the malayan peoples anti japanese army mpaja to essentially wage jungle guerrilla warfare against japanese occupying forces with the cessation of hostilities anti japanese became anti british and using the same weapons and training fortuitously provided by the british army during the war the mcp launched a guerrilla war of insurgency malaya was of significant strategic and economic importance to britain in the face of an emerging communist regime in china a british presence in southeast asia was imperative equally rubber and tin largely produced in malaya by british expatriates were important inputs for british industry typically the insurgents dubbed communist terrorists or simply cts went about attacking soft targets in remote areas the rubber plantations and tin mines in conjunction with this was the implementation of maos dictate of subverting the rural largely peasant population to the cause twelve years of counterinsurgency operations ensued as a wide range of british forces were joined in the conflict by ground air and sea units from australia new zealand southern and northern rhodesia fiji and nyasaland when japan withdrew its occupying troops at the end of the second world war the malayan economy was in crisis wages were low unemployment was high and strikes were common the british administration dealt harshly with protestors and outlawed leftist political groups such as the malayan communist party whose military wing the malayan races liberation army began a successful guerrilla campaign against the symbols of colonial power the mines and plantations in desperation the british army resurrected a force that had been disbanded after the second world war the sas reformed as the malayan scouts their task was to succeed where normal soldiering had failed and take the fight to the insurgents in the jungle operating as guerrillas themselves the malayan scouts sas is the story of one soldier s experiences of sas operations during the malayan emergency fighting a ruthless enemy in a hostile environment the british did not always cover themselves with glory and it is a tale of mutiny cruelty and violence as much as comradeship and bravery yet it is a story that should be told behind barbed wire looks behind the façade to ask what it was really like to be moved to and live in a new village tan who himself lived in new villages growing up combines archival sources and oral history to give us a rounded account we need tan s book because up to now the outsider s view has predominated and outsiders have their own agenda karl hack in the journal of the malaysian branch of the royal asiatic society this unique book revisits the moment in the malayan emergency when some 500 000 women children and men were uprooted from their homes and moved into new settlements guarded day and night by police and troops a majority were rural chinese market gardeners shopkeepers rice farmers tin miners and rubber tappers who had long made malaya their home and had lived through the hardships of the japanese occupation based upon newly accessible archival materials and painstaking multilingual interviews with more than 80 informants in four new villages tan teng phee rewrites the history of the emergency exposing the voices of those at the heart of this lauded social experiment in francis loh s words these were ordinary villagers caught in the crossfire between the british security forces and the malayan communist party whose lives were turned inside out and re ordered completely with daily curfews body searches and food controls alongside the carrots and sticks of registration re education sanitation psychological warfare and swift punishment highlighting the disciplinary aims of british policy as well as the ways in which villagers resisted this discipline through weapons of the weak this book forms a unique history from below of the malayan emergency and of a resettlement programme which shaped the social and geographical landscape of malaysia for generations to come the malayan emergency of 1948 1960 has been scrutinised for lessons about how to win counterinsurgencies from the vietnam war to twenty first century afghanistan this book brings our understanding of the conflict up to date by interweaving government and insurgent accounts and looking at how they played out at local level drawing on oral history recent memoirs and declassified archival material from the uk and asia karl hack offers a comprehensive multi perspective account of the malayan emergency and its impact on malaysia he sheds new light on questions about terror and violence against civilians how insurgency and decolonisation interacted and how revolution was defeated he considers how government policies such as pressurising villagers resettlement and winning hearts and minds can be judged from the perspective of insurgents and civilians this timely book is the first truly multi perspective and in depth study of anti colonial resistance and counterinsurgency in the malayan emergency the malayan emergency the confrontation with indonesia and the brunei revolt are fundamental to an understanding of southeast asia during the 20th century this bibliography brings together 4575 sources which should provide useful information for scholars researching these developments and southeast asian history in general sources include books theses newspaper and magazine articles and unpublished manuscripts
