seminar paper from the year 2014 in the subject english language and literature studies literature grade 2 0 university of cologne englisches seminar course the london stage language english abstract a main objective of the simpsons series seems to be to take every day issues and world events as a part of its stories and to deal with them in a satirical way while it also concerns itself with apparently banal issues like popular movies or bands war politics or nuclear power do not make an exception in the series content mick broderick points out that while many episodes ostensibly do not touch on nuclear themes the ever present influence and immanence of the atomic age pervades the simpsons like a thematic half life whose motifs contaminate the multi layered intertextual narratives of each episode often as satire at this background anne washburn s decision to take the simpsons of all things as the one part of popular culture that survives inside the people s memories throughout a nuclear apocalypse seems even more peculiar and ironic but that s just what happens in washburn s mr burns a post electric play the electric grid is destroyed and people have to adapt to a world without telephones television electric stoves or radiators they have to revert to older ways of engagement like storytelling but instead of higher literature they reminisce about parts of popular culture everyone remembers the following paper therefore will analyse anne washburn s play in regard to the way popular culture is represented in her post apocalyptic world why is it important and why is the simpsons washburn s main representative of contemporary popular culture in the play and moreover in which ways does the representational form of popular culture change throughout it using our favourite springfield family as a case study watching with the simpsons examines the textual and social role of parody in offering critical commentary on other television programs and genres jonathan gray brings together textual theory discussions of television and the public sphere and ideas of parody and comedy including primary audience research it focuses on how the simpsons has been able to talk back to three of television s key genres the sitcom adverts and the news and on how it holds the potential to short circuit these genre s meanings power and effects by provoking reinterpretations and offering more media literate recontextualizations examining television and media studies theory the text of the simpsons and the show s audience gray attempts to fully situate the show s parody and humour within the lived realities of its audiences in doing so he further explores the possibilities for popular entertainment television to discuss issues of political and social importance a must read for any student of media studies the object of much debate attention and scholarship since it first aired more than 20 years ago the simpsons provides excellent if unexpected fodder for high school and college lesson plans after all laughing students are hardly sleeping students but the simpsons also provides a familiar student knowledge base which instructors can use as a jumping off point to introduce concepts in literature composition linguistics cultural studies gender studies and media appreciation the authors both of whom have been teaching the simpsons for more than a decade share exercises prompts and even syllabi that have proven successful in their own courses instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here this entertaining and informative book is a fun and intelligent look at how our society is reflected in the hit tv show the simpsons and how the simpsons is reflected in society
