this volume begins with a new essay by julia kristeva the adolescent novel in which she examines the relation between novelistic writing and the experience of adolescence as an open structure it is this blend of the literary with the psychoanalytic that places kristeva's work central to current thinking from semiotics and critical theory to feminism and psychoanalysis the essays in this volume offer insight into the workings of kristeva's thought ranging from her analyses of sexual difference female temporality and the perceptions of the body to the mental states of abjection and melancholia and their representation in painting and literature kristeva's persistent humanity her profound understanding of the dynamics of intention and creativity mark her out as one of the leading theoreticians of desire each essay offers the reader a new insight into the many aspects that make up kristeva's entire oeuvre this book offers a new reading of early modern romance in the light of historically contemporary accounts of mind and specifically the medical tradition of love melancholy the book argues that the medical profile of the melancholic lover provides an essential context for understanding the characteristic patterns of romance narrative deferral epistemological uncertainty and the endless quest for a quasi phantasmic beloved unlike many recent studies of romance this book establishes a detailed historical basis for investigating the psychological structure of romance wells begins by tracing the development of the medical disorder first known in the latin west as amor heros lovesickness from its earliest roots in greek and arabic medicine to its translation into the latin medical tradition drawing on this detailed historical material the book considers three important early modern romances ariosto's orlando furioso tasso's gerusalemme liberata and spenser's the faerie queene concluding with a brief consideration of the significance of this literary and medical legacy for romanticism most broadly the interdisciplinary nature of this study allows the author to investigate the central critical problem of early modern subjectivity in substantially new ways these works were written against a background of war and racism freud sought the sources of conflict in the deepest memories of humankind finding clear continuities between our primitive past and civilized modernity in totem and taboo he explores institutions of tribal life tracing analogies between the rites of hunter gatherers and the obsessions of urban dwellers while mourning and melancholia sees a similarly self destructive savagery underlying individual life in the modern age which issues at times in self harm and suicide and freud's extraordinary letter to einstein why war rejecting what he saw as the physicist's naïve pacifism sums up his unsparing view of history in a few profoundly pessimistic yet grimly persuasive pages this collection analyzes philosophical psycho analytic and aesthetic contexts of the discourse of melancholia in british and postcolonial literature and culture and seeks to trace the multi faceted phenomenon of melancholia from the early modern period to the present texts discussed range from shakespeare and milton to coetzee and barker this volume focuses on a longing projected mostly toward the past mal d afrique alongside a longing toward the future afro optimism and the different manifestations shifting meanings and potential points of contact of these two stances the volume introduces a new perspective into the discussion of somalia in italian studies this is an intersectional work of italian studies scholarship whose contributors help re imagine the field and its relationship to somalia with their diverse backgrounds unique insights and global breadth the book integrates the current scholarship on somalia with the most recent theoretical studies on nostalgia visionary affect colonial ruins silenced archives melancholy ecology food and diaspora classical studies and performativity storytelling afro fabulation and queer literature media and humanitarianism and afro optimism the book will serve as an invaluable reference in multidisciplinary programs such as global history africana studies diaspora studies migration studies peace and conflict studies integrity and global studies as well as italian studies and various core courses because of its interdisciplinary discussion of somalia the volume will draw the interest of a large readership among scholars and non scholars from different disciplines and geographic affiliation the word freedom is so overly used and frequently abused that it is always in danger of becoming nothing but a cliché in another freedom svetlana boym offers us a refreshing new portrait of the age old concept exploring the rich cross cultural history of the idea of freedom from its origins in ancient greece to the present day she argues that our attempts to imagine freedom should occupy the space of not only what is but also what if beginning with notions of sacrifice and the emergence of a public sphere for politics and art boym expands her account to include the relationships between freedom and liberation modernity and terror and political dissent and creative estrangement while depicting a world of differences she affirms lasting solidarities based on the commitment to the passionate thinking that reflections on freedom require to do so boym assembles a remarkable cast of characters aeschylus and euripides kafka and mandelstam arendt and heidegger and a virtual encounter between dostoevsky and marx on the streets of paris by offering a fresh look at the strange history of this idea another freedom delivers a nuanced portrait of freedom one whose repercussions will be felt well into the future the author discusses the causes of depression outlets that the fight against it may take and ways in which to understand and alleviate it includes case histories and concrete examples during the nineteenth century liverpool had a notorious reputation as a dangerous violent crime ridden city yet were these fears justified or were they rather the sensational inventions of victorian era news the monster evil explores liverpool s history of violent crime and its policing by the then new constabulary through the use of police records local and national press and contemporary accounts of the violence confronting constables on night patrol the first significant account of nineteenth century violence in a british city this book covers the entire spectrum of violent crime from murder to drunken assault and sheds light on the role of the police in combating it provides a reassessment of the question of sexual difference taking into account shifts in feminist thought post humanist theories and queer studies this collection of essays offers insights into the question of sexual difference from a post feminist perspective and how it is reformulated in various related areas of study such as ontology late nineteenth and early twentieth century theorists such as freud durkheim weber and marx built their intellectual edifices on what they thought would be the remains or ruins of religion in the wake of modernization but today the decline and disappearance of religion can no longer be simply assumed in the face of contemporary entanglements of religion and violence the establishment of meaning and morality remains troubling the experience of loss and change remains paradoxically constant and new theoretical perspectives feminism race studies postcolonial studies queer studies postmodernism have emerged challenging the works that mourned religion and created meaning in earlier periods the effects of this ongoing experience of mourning and symbolic loss on culture on subjectivity and on the academic disciplines of religious studies though immense are poorly understood and underinterpreted in order to correct this lacuna in scholarly thought this volume brings together a notable group of scholars who examine the ways in which recent cultural transformations inform the place of religion in the modern world methodologically they represent the intersection of religious studies and the social scientific study of religion bringing the disciplines of psychology sociology and anthropology into this dialogue
