this collection re imagines the study of english and media in a way that decentralises the text e g romantic poetry or film noir or media formats platforms e g broadcast media new media instead the authors work across boundaries in meaningful thematic contexts that reflect the ways in which people engage with reading watching making and listening in their textual lives in so doing this project recasts both subjects as combined in a more reflexive critical space for the study of our everyday social and cultural interactions across the chapters the authors present applicable learning and teaching strategies that weave together art works films social practices creativity viral media theater tv social media videogames and literature the culmination of this range of strategies is a reclaimed blue skies approach to progressive textual education free from constraining shackles of outdated ideas about textual categories and value that have hitherto alienated generations of students and both english and media from themselves teaching with dystopian text propounds an exchange of spatial to pedagogical practices centered around orwellian spaces signaling a new utility for teaching with dystopian texts in secondary education the volume details the urgency of dystopian texts for secondary students providing theoretical frameworks classroom examples and practical research the function of dystopian texts such as george orwell s 1984 as social and political critique is demonstrated as central to their power teaching with dystopian text exploring orwellian spaces for student empowerment and resilience makes a case that dystopian texts can be instrumental in the transfer of spatial practices to pedagogical practices pedagogical application creates links between the text and the student through defamiliarization connecting the student to practices of resistance in the space of the classroom the volume also addresses the challenges of teaching dystopian text in a dystopian educational climate including the covid 19 lockdown in addition to appealing to scholars and researchers of literacy education language education and dystopian text this book will also be a powerful yet accessible resource for secondary teachers as they address dystopian concerns with students in the complicated twenty first century online learning has become more and more common globally whether for comfort adapting to work hours or just having the freedom to study from anywhere and now under the coronavirus pandemic as people are having to stay at home it has become more important than ever although the popularity of wireless network and portable smart device makes it possible for people to acquire and learn knowledge anytime and anywhere it does not necessarily mean an increased learning performance relevant research in cognitive science has revealed possible limitations in online learning for example the knowledge acquired through online learning tends to be fragmented and lacks guidance for integrated thinking among different subjects which makes it difficult for learners to form a systematic knowledge structure learners may experience cognitive overload metacognitive illusion and low learning efficiency in self regulated learning it follows that in the post covid 19 era online learning puts forward new requirements and challenges to the contemporary students not only to their learning strategies but positive character traits in learning most of the current learning theories were developed in the early 20th century and may not fit in well with the current situation then possibly leading to inefficient learning and increased learning burden therefore it is necessary and important to reexplore the influencing factors and mechanisms that affect the learning efficiency of students at all levels nowadays based on which we could construct a theoretical model of efficient learning model
