Samson Daft Donnet's management is a robust foundation text providing a balance of broad theoretical content with an engaging easy to understand writing style. It covers the four key management functions: planning, organising, leading, and controlling, conveying to students the elements of a manager's working day along with current management theory and practice. The authors integrate coverage of innovation, entrepreneurship, agile workplaces, social media, and new technology throughout. This sixth edition features a new author on the team and contains updates to content based on recent research. Real-life local and international examples showcase the ongoing changes in the management world, focusing on a skills approach. They bring concepts to life for students, supporting motivation, confidence, and mastery. Each part concludes with a contemporary continuing case study focusing on car company Toyota as it faces managerial challenges and opportunities in the region.

Based on the results of 177 survey responses, Tobias Weigl shows that the simple transfer of managerial and organizational skills, techniques, values, and culture from developed countries to Russia is a false assumption among academics and practitioners.

Strategic alliances have emerged as an important element of firms' strategies. Following suit, research on alliances has blossomed, concentrating on the various forms alliances take, the reasons of their existence, and increasingly embracing questions of alliance management and governance tasks. However, most contributions which address the alliance governance problem are yet rather vague and selective in their conception of alliance governance structures as well as the factors which influence their suitability. The aim of this book is to further advance our understanding of alliance governance and to provide recommendations on the problem of alliance governance design following the configurational approach. Sascha Albers develops a comprehensive model of alliance governance systems. He identifies relevant structural and instrumental design parameters and analyzes major contingency factors including member firms' cultures and alliance experience, number of alliance partners, and trust, which impact the design parameters' suitability. He finally deduces five configurations or ideal types of alliance governance systems which can be regarded as blueprints for the practitioner and as platform for further research for the alliance scholar. Potential readership includes scholars of strategic management and organization theory, interested students in these areas, as well as practitioners involved in formulating and implementing alliance strategies.
