at the time of australian federation in 1901 german immigrants constituted two per cent of the population of victoria this book examines how they settled formed a communal infrastructure and how they related to their anglo celtic hosts it is shown that their attempts to form a cohesive community failed by investigating the role played by the lutheran church german associations community leaders and the rift between rural and urban communities the changing relationship between the british empire the german reich and emerging australian nationalism receives close attention the book tests and then proves a hypothesis that rural communities were more resilient and better equipped to survive while urban communities were not

this study applies the community model to examine german life in winnipeg from its beginnings to the end of world war i emphasis is on the organizational and territorial dimensions of the community with stress on residential patterns and the growth of local german institutions these are examined with reference to the network of influences affecting their development the nazi party and the german foreign office explores the struggle between entrenched diplomats in the foreign office and party loyalists who presumed that with the assumption of power in 1933 total state control was theirs based on empirical studies this book investigates the particular urban history of the north from the 17th century until today in a comparative northern perspective urban life in nordic countries is the result of a conference on urbanity in the periphery held in stockholm on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of the institute of urban history at stockholm university aimed at establishing the field of the urban history of the north and creating a network of urban historians of the north with a broad range of contributions from sweden finland denmark norway and estonia the volume seeks to further discourse on the region within national and transnational lenses and to highlight possibilities for new cooperation among researchers urban history is a transdisciplinary subject engaging not only historians but also ethnologists sociologists urban planners and cultural geographers and this book targets all scholars whose work requires a historical understanding of the northern town european urban historians outside the region will also find this text valuable as one of the few studies to consider the urban history of the continent from a north centered viewpoint contains the first printing of sartor resartus as well as other works by thomas carlyle
