an innovative new analysis of the odyssey's most influential female character parmenides and the history of dialectic is a study of greek philosophical method as it affects contemporary philosophical issues what was distinctive about the method of parmenides the inventor of philosophical argument as we know it how did parmenides method affect plato s dialectic which was supposed to provide the solution to all ultimate philosophical problems how in turn did plato influence hegel and our subsequent tradition there are many studies of parmenides text its philosophical content and its influence this study aims to do something different to look at the form of the argument the scope of its positive and negative language the balanced structure its author generates and the clear parallels with plato s parmenides along the way austin considers issues like these was parmenides an absolute monist entitled to speak at all and in many negative words at that how did he think that his own language related to the reality that he was trying to describe what was his notion of the use of metaphor what logical techniques did he invent has his type of philosophy come to an end epicurus and his roman disciple lucretius held that the primary cause of human unhappiness was an irrational fear of death what is more they believed that a clear understanding of the nature of the world would help to eliminate this fear for if we recognize that the universe and everything in it is made up of atoms and empty space we will see that the soul cannot possibly survive the extinction of the body and no harm to us can occur after we die this liberating insight is at the core of epicurean therapy in this book konstan seeks to show how such fears arose according to the epicureans and why they persist even in modern societies it offers a close examination of the basic principles of epicurean psychology showing how a system based on a materialistic world view could provide a coherent account of irrational anxieties and desires and provide a therapy that would allow human beings to enjoy life to the fullest degree
