organizational spaces explores a wide range of interfaces between built spaces and organizational actors including the ways the former can potentially affect and shape the behaviours and acts of employees at all levels as well as clients other visitors and onlookers using innovative interpretive methods the book provides detailed empirical and theoretical analyses of field research that focus on the meanings that organizational spaces can communicate to multiple audiences scholars and graduate students in the areas of organizational culture cultural change and intervention in organizations international business design sciences as well as in organizational studies more broadly should not be without this important and highly original resource this book represents a narrative quest for a symbolic grounding to help leaders in times when stable social structures and institutions dissolve and disappear monika kostera approaches this sense making process through innovative research methods collecting stories from participants and exploring plots and outcomes of an imagined meeting between two symbolic worlds one of the internal and imaginative and the other of the external and corporate this book examines the role and utilization of workplace space how it is organized how it can reflect organisational values how it can affect employee identities and the many ways in which the physical environment can influence and affect organisational goals especially in areas such as commitment creativity and innovation explores the relation between architecture management and organization theory by looking at processes of organizing from a spatial perspective this book shows how power culture change and identity are embedded enacted and played out in and through space it is for people studying architecture design management and organization theory through the focus on organizational space using the reception and significance of the seminal work on the subject by sociologist henri lefebvre this book demonstrates why and how lefebvre s work can be used to inform and elaborate organisational studies especially in view of the current interest in the socio material dimension of organisations as the spatial turn in organisational research exposed the importance of spatial design in inducing power and cultural relations lefebvre s perspective has become an inspiring theoretical framework however organisational space and beyond explores how lefebvre s work could be of a much wider relevance especially given his profound theoretical engagement with diverse schools of philosophical and sociological thought including nietzsche marx sartre and foucault this book brings together a range of authors that collectively develop a broader understanding of lefebvre s relevance to organizational studies including areas of management concern such as strategy and diversity studies and ultimately draw on lefebvre s work to rethink reimagine and reshape scholarship in organisational studies it will be of relevance to researchers academics students and organizational professionals in the fields of organisation studies management studies cultural studies architecture and sociology bridging the gap between architecture and infrastructure easterling views architecture as part of an ecology of interrelationships and linkages and she treats the expression of organizational character as part of the architectural endeavor the dominant architectures in our culture of development consist of generic protocols for building offices airports houses and highways for keller easterling these organizational formats are not merely the context of design efforts they are the design bridging the gap between architecture and infrastructure easterling views architecture as part of an ecology of interrelationships and linkages and she treats the expression of organizational character as part of the architectural endeavor easterling also makes the case that these organizational formats are improvisational and responsive to circumstantial change to mistakes anomalies and seemingly illogical market forces by treating these irregularities opportunistically she offers architects working within the customary development protocols new sites for making and altering space by showing the reciprocal relations between systems of thinking and modes of designing easterling establishes unexpected congruencies between natural and built environments virtual and physical systems highway and communication networks and corporate and spatial organizations she frames her unconventional notion of site not in terms of singular entities but in terms of relationships between multiple sites that are both individually and collectively adjustable this paper presents an integrated framework for studying organizational spaces it suggests that existing research can be classed into three categories studies of space as distance studies of space as the materialization of power relations and studies of space as experience these approaches are drawn together using henri lefebvre s theory of spatial production to argue that an adequate understanding of organizational spaces would investigate how they are practised planned and imagined moreover an adequate theory of space would account for multiple spatial levels or scales to illustrate the potential of the synthetic framework a reading of three exemplary studies of multiple organizational spaces from social anthropology and economic geography is presented the paper concludes by presenting a research agenda that indicates how data collection and analysis in established fields such as employee relations and international business might become more space sensitive by integrating such theorized cross scale analysis organizations in the creative and cultural sector are experiencing transformational change this book offers a new way of exploring the transformational processes that these organizations are going through by focusing on their organizational space by bringing together theoretical and empirical contributions from international scholars belonging to different fields of research such as management entrepreneurship sociology philosophy and anthropology this volume seeks to provide readers with a multifaceted comprehensive understanding of the changes that creative and cultural organizations are facing by exploring them from an original perspective the spatial one this volume provides the foundations for developing a coherent research debate on the spatial dimension of creative and cultural organizations leading to a new research agenda this book contributes to our understanding of the space of the creative and cultural industries and will be a useful reading for scholars involved in arts and cultural management in particular as well as the social and human sciences more broadly this book will inspire and inform researchers and managers who look with curiosity at the changes taking place in the creative and cultural sectors an important challenge to organization theory is to search for constructs that explain how contexts for work emerge evolve persist and change this book explores the concept of space as representing a wide variety of contexts organization as a process as distinguished from organization as an entity is seen as the construction of space where space is the outcome of human action and interaction as well as providing a context for actions and interaction the book shows how different forms of space lie at the base of a number of developments in organization theory it then takes the step to show how contemporary developments in social science represented by works by writers such as giddens luhmann latour and bourdieu can be used to establish a dynamic understanding of organization as space insights from these discussions are used to establish a unique and coherent way of understanding complexities of modern

this timely book explores how space emerges as people attempt to organize and reorganize their everyday activities from the workplace to the internet geographical districts to international development projects it offers new insights on how created spaces enable further activities as the organizing process evolves materiality and space focuses on how organizations and managing are bound with the material forms and spaces through which humans act and interact at work it concentrates on organizational practices and pulls together three separate domains that are rarely looked at together sociomateriality sociology of space and social studies of technology the contributions draw on and combine several of these domains and propose analyses of spaces and materiality in a range of organizational practices such as collaborative workspaces media work urban management e learning environments managerial control mobile lives institutional routines and professional identity theoretical insights are also developed by pickering on the material world lyytinen on affordance lorino on architecture and introna on sociomaterial assemblages in order to delve further into conceptualizing materiality in organizations organizational spaces project claims of organizational legitimacy while also constituting physical environments where work happens this research questions how organizational space and legitimacy are mutually constituted over time as organizations experience shifts in work and institutional demands building on a qualitative case study of paris dauphine university a french university founded in the late 1960s that has since its inception occupied the former north atlantic treaty organization headquarters we theorize the dynamic intersection of organizational space and legitimacy over time the case study demonstrates how spatial practices of appropriation reappropriation and disappropriation intersect with and inform what we call spatial legacies that function to establish or repair an alignment between organizational space and legitimacy spatial practices of appropriation and reappropriation build and manipulate spatial legacies whereas spatial practices of disappropriation attempt to break away from such legacies appropriation and reappropriation involve managing spatial legacies to maintain the alignment between organizational space and legitimacy claims disappropriation involves trying to erase or alter these legacies to realign the space to changing legitimacy claims this research adds to the literature on sociomateriality by adopting a longitudinal perspective that highlights legacies as nondeterministic outcomes of past imbrications of the social and the material to research on legitimacy by conceptualizing it as a sociomaterial construction and to research on organizational spaces by revealing the institutional underpinnings of spatial transformations this research also holds practical implications by highlighting the relationships between space as it is designed and used and an organization's legitimacy claims and by showing how claiming the immutability or flexibility of a space can be legitimizing for an organization

through the focus on organizational space using the reception and significance of the seminal work on the subject by sociologist henri lefebvre this book demonstrates why and how lefebvre's work can be used to inform and elaborate organisational studies especially in view of the current interest in the socio material dimension of organisations as the spatial turn in organisational research exposed the importance of spatial design in inducing power and cultural relations lefebvre's perspective has become an inspiring theoretical framework however organisational space and beyond explores how lefebvre's work could be of a much wider relevance especially given his profound theoretical engagement with diverse schools of philosophical and sociological thought including nietzsche marx sartre and foucault this book brings together a range of authors that collectively develop a broader understanding of lefebvre's relevance to organizational studies including areas of management concern such as strategy and diversity studies and ultimately draw on lefebvre's work to rethink reimagine and reshape scholarship in organisational studies it will be of relevance to researchers academics students and organizational professionals in the fields of organisation studies management studies cultural studies architecture and sociology

by combining new research on leadership and workspaces leadership in spaces and places argues for a radical reconceptualization of leadership they argue leadership is not only about leaders themselves but is also affected by the built environment
